Students may petition to include up to 12 credits of coursework from outside the courses listed here. Courses must be from at least three different subject codes. To count toward the interdisciplinary minor, 30 percent or more of the course content should focus on Russia. Students must submit a syllabus for each course being petitioned to the Department of Languages, Literatures and Cultures and a brief description of individual work completed by the student for each proposed course. Courses from study abroad programs will be evaluated as part of the overall program.
